New Legacy Society Being Launched This Fall

“As my father planted for me, so do I plant for my children.” - Talmud, Ta’anit

B’nai Jeshurun Legacy Society members are dedicated to ensuring the future of our beloved synagogue for generations to come. This new Society will acknowledge and thank donors who have chosen to leave a legacy at B’nai Jeshurun through an endowed fund, including our synagogue in their estate plans, and/or donating $1,000+ to our endowment. We will host the inaugural event of the Legacy Society in early September.

Whether through an outright gift during your lifetime or a bequest upon your passing, endowed support of B’nai Jeshurun ensures a lasting legacy and an enduring impact. Contact development director Kim Cole to discuss creating your legacy gift, to let us know you have already included the synagogue in your estate plans, or to learn more about the Legacy Society.

We look forward to celebrating our legacy donors’ commitment to securing our sacred and special shul for our children and grandchildren!

In June, 25 members of our synagogue community traveled together for 11 days on B’nai Jeshurun’s European Heritage Tour to Budapest, Ledec, Prague, Terezin and Berlin. With so many trips, tours and tour companies to choose among and a whole world of locations, why attend a synagogue sponsored trip to these places? Two compelling reasons factored into the decision Mark and I made to join the group, since we typically travel on our own or with just a few friends.

First, we were particularly interested in a trip with a focus on the Jewish history and current status of Jews and Judaism in Budapest, Prague and Berlin. The tour company, in consultation with Rabbi Weiss, arranged for us to tour significant Jewish historical sites, including synagogues, cemeteries, museums, and memorials. Rabbi Weiss planned the very unique aspects of our trip including time spent with Rabbi Frolich, Chief Rabbi of Hungary, at the Dohany synagogue and with Rabbi Tamas & Rebbetzin Linda Vero at the Frankel Shul in Budapest. These two Neolog congregations fall between Orthodox and Conservative Judaism. We learned how these rabbis meet with Jewish teens who do not yet identify as Jewish to nurture a connection to Jewish roots. In Prague, we celebrated Kabbalat Shabbat with Masorti Rabbi Ron Hoffberg at the Jewish Town Hall and Shabbat morning services at the Orthodox synagogue where Rabbi Hoffberg was invited to participate in the service. In Berlin, we met with Masorti Rabbi Gesa Ederberg of Oranienburgerstrasse Synagogue and gained a greater understanding of why Israelis and others Jews are living in Germany in greater numbers. We paid a meaningful visit to the renovated synagogue in Ledec – the original home of our Ledec Torah.

Our second reason for joining the trip was to immerse ourselves in a meaningful experience with synagogue members. The bonds of friendship and shared experience will remain with each of us. These are just our top two reasons for traveling with the European Jewish Heritage Tour. Mark joins me in encouraging you and your family to participate in future trips.

This month, we will commemorate the 9th of Av. On this tragic day, both Temples were destroyed amongst other calamities. Our sages teach that the primary reason for the destruction was needless hatred and the inability to get along and function in harmony.

G-d commands us in the Torah to love our fellow man as we do ourselves. Realistically, this is a very ambitious goal and commandment to fulfill. However, respecting one another, regardless of the differences in opinions and philosophies has resulted in abject failure. Have we learned anything from the cause of the destruction of the Temples? Unfortunately not, as the world and our country is rife with hatred, indifference and the inability to co-exist. To turn on the news daily is to be made aware of this point. Violence, murder, slander, pure vitriol and hatred are ever-present. There are billions of people in our world. Each individual is different and unique. Unfortunately, these differences are not acceptable to some and they choose to be derisive and unaccommodating.

“respect and acceptance of others is paramount to peace”

We don’t all have to agree on everything, but respect and acceptance of others is paramount to peace. Sanctity of life has to be appreciated. Each of us was created in the image of G-d. With that comes responsibility to act as a steward of this world. Each of us has the task to make our world better. This starts with one relationship at a time, truly understanding that this is what G-d expects from us. Compassion and kindness can go a long way.

The 25-hour Fast of Av should be used to reflect not just on the destruction of the Temples, but on how each and every one of us can improve our ways. It is very easy to be judgmental and tear down people. The real challenge is how to forgive others as well as to understand their behaviors. As the cliché goes, we can agree to disagree, but remain respectful. May we all merit the coming of the Messiah and witness Jerusalem in its holiness as it once was. Have a meaningful fast.

Cantor Aaron Shifman
There is a story in the midrash about two prominent rabbis, Yochanan Ben Zakkai and Yehoshua, walking in Jerusalem after the destruction of the Temple. Rabbi Yehoshua looks at the ruins and says, “Alas! The place which atoned for the sins of our people through sacrifice lies in ruins!” Ben Zakkai then shares these words of comfort: “Do not be grieved, my son. There is another way of gaining atonement even though the Temple is destroyed. To do what is right and just is more desired by the Lord than sacrifice.”

Among the most central teachings we read in the Torah this month is Tzedek, Tzedek Tirdof – “Justice, justice shall you pursue.” The midrash explains the many ways justice is superior to sacrifice in God’s eyes. While sacrifice only applied while the Temple stood in Jerusalem, justice and righteousness were essential during the biblical period and are no less mandated today. While sacrifices only atoned for unintentional, accidental sins, acts of righteousness and justice atone even for intentional sins. Where sacrifices are offered only by human beings, even God is obligated to practice justice and righteousness.

For all of these reasons, the midrash affirms the centrality of justice in our tradition. Following in the ways of Torah requires a strong commitment to making the world a more just and righteous place. Certainly, we know injustice in our collective memory. We must pursue justice because we know, uniquely, how severe the consequences of injustice can be. We can each remember times in our own lives where we have been exploited, mistreated and treated unjustly. It might on occasion be tempting for us to say, “If you had been through what I’ve been through, you would understand I don’t owe anybody anything,” or “If I was wronged, why should I have the responsibility to ensure another person isn’t wronged?” And yet, the Torah teaches that from these experiences we must learn to be just. If we wish to be worthy heirs of the Torah, of our tradition, we must wrestle with these words as we seek to grow in our kindness and compassion.
