Be prepared to B-Well this year! Every other month you'll have an opportunity to meet with a group to exercise together, whether we go outside running or walking, learn some yoga, dance Israeli, meet at the gym and play basketball or jump in the pool and swim laps! The in-between months will be comprised of educational seminars that will teach you various important fitness lessons.

Join us for Sunday morning minyan and breakfast at 8:00 am.; programs will begin at 9:00 am. Exercise groups will meet April 17, June 5 and August 7. Seminars will be held as follows:

March 13: Couch Potato to 5K seminar with Robert Zelwin, our congregant and expert runner. Robert has been running since October 1977; he has run over 63,000 miles, competed in 45 marathons (including the Boston Marathon numerous times) and over 250 races. He has helped train over 50 people to run marathons and ran the Columbus Marathon with his three sons in 2008. He founded the Jewish Welfare Fund Run, aka the Julie Kravitz Run, in 1979.

May 15: Nutrition seminar

July 10: Fitness seminar

September 18: B-WELL 150th 5K RUN/WALK

Dates and session topics are subject to change.

לְפָנַי תָּמִיד - Before Me Tamid

By Rabbi Joel Levy, Conservative Yeshiva Rosh Yeshiva

After the Exodus from Egypt and the glories of the revelation at Mount Sinai come five shockingly technical parshiot dealing largely with the building of the Mishkan or tabernacle in the desert and its many appurtenances. What motivates the Torah to shift so suddenly from breath-taking narrative to numbing technicality? What is the connection between the stunning experience of God on The Mountain and the minute details of the Mishkan?

One possible answer emerges from a keyword that appears for the very first time in the Torah in Parashat Terumah, last week, and which then floods Parashat Tetsaveh with another seven appearances. The word "tamid" (always) appears first in Exodus Chapter 25 with reference to the show-bread in the Mishkan:

ל וְנָתַתָּ עַל-הַשֻּׁלְחָן לֶחֶם פָּנִים, לְפָנַי תָּמִיד.

30 And you shall set upon the table show-bread before Me always.

Then in our parasha "tamid" recurs in chapters 27, 28 and 29 with reference (respectively) to the perpetually burning oil lamp in the Mishkan, the habitual clothing of the priests and the regularly offered sacrifices:

כ וְאָתָּה תְצַוֶּה אֶת-בְּנֵי יִשְׂרָאֵל, וַיִּקְחוּ אֵלָיִךְ שֶׁמֶן זַיִת זָךְ כְּתִית--לְמָאוֹר: לְהַעֲלֹת נֵר, תָּמִיד.

20 And you shall command the children of Israel, that they bring to you pure olive oil beaten for the light, to cause a lamp to burn always.

כט וְנָשָׂא אֶהְרֹן אֶת-שְׁמוֹת בְּנֵי-יִשְׂרָאֵל בְּחֹשֶׁן הַמִּשְׁפָּט, עַל-לְבוֹ--בְּבָאוּ אֶל-הַקֹּדֶשׁ: לְזָכָר לְפָנַי-יְהוָה, תָּמִיד.

29 And Aaron shall bear the names of the children of Israel in the breastplate of judgment upon his heart, when he goes in to the holy place, for a memorial before the LORD always.

לח וְזֶה, אֲשֶׁר תַּעֲשֶׂה עַל-הַמִּזְבֵּחַ: כְּבָשִׂים בְּנֵי-שָׁנָה שְׁנַיִם לַיּוֹם, תָּמִיד.

38 Now this is that which you shall offer upon the altar: two lambs of the first year day by day always.

"Tamid" (always) does not mean "forever"; that these practices will never cease. "Tamid" refers instead to a practice that is performed regularly or continually. I have opted to preserve the repeated Hebrew word "tamid" by translating it in each instance as "always", but a better translation might have been "continually", "regularly", "constantly" or "perpetually".

There are important differences between things that are perpetual and those that are regular. This is a difference that the rabbis of the Talmud pick up and debate beautifully in Masechet Menachot (99b). For our purposes it is enough to observe that the Torah is not emphasizing here that the rites of the Mishkan will last forever but rather that they will be performed repeatedly, regularly or continually.

In these parshiot the Torah bridges the gap between the one-off event of the Revelation at Sinai and the human need for rites and practices that preserve such a unique moment through constancy and repetition. Supreme moments of revelatory clarity need to be translated into a regular matrix of memorializing cultural forms. Our individual and communal lives contain peak moments, one-off events, but for those events to be nourishing over time they need to be preserved, normalized and regularized. Sinai was a sprint, but life, if we are lucky, is a marathon. The quality of "Hatmadah", loyal constancy and regularity over time, is much treasured in the yeshiva world in relation to prayer and learning. It is a quality that we should seek to develop in the world of liberal Judaism too.

Table Talk

By Vered Hollander-Goldfarb, Conservative Yeshiva Faculty

What is a Mishkan (Tabernacle) without Kohanim (priests) to work in it? In this Parasha we receive the instructions for their garments and for the ceremony to turn them into Kohanim (this is the plural form of Kohen). Visual aids might be helpful: I suggest looking up images for 'the priestly garments' on the internet to help you with the learning.

1) We open with instructions to the people to bring olive oil. What is it used for, and when was it used? Why do you think that there was an instruction to always have the light on?

2) The Kohanim have special garments. In general, what is the purpose of garments that are identified with a job or a position? What is the purpose of the garments of the Kohanim according to 28:2?

3) Aaron the Kohen Gadol (high priest) has special garments, even among the other Kohanim. On his shoulders are 2 precious stones (28:9-12). What is written on them? Why are they placed on Aaron's shoulders? What might it suggest about the role of the Kohen Gadol?

4) As part of his special garments Aaron will wear a gold plate on his forehead (28:36-39). What is inscribed on the gold plate? What might that suggest about the role of the Kohen Gadol? How compatible is that with the role we saw in the previous question?

5) In order for Aaron and his sons to become Kohanim, they have to go through an extensive ceremony, the instructions for which are found in chapter 29. How long is this ceremony good for according to 29:9?

May He who blessed our ancestors and is the source of all healing bless and heal those who are ill. May the Holy One Praised Be He mercifully restore them to vigor and lift the burden of anxiety from their loved ones and friends.

On this (Sabbath, Festival, Judgment or Penitence) day we pray that they be spared further pain. May God grant them health of body and health of spirit and mind. May we speedily be privileged to greet their return to good health by welcoming them once again into our midst. Let us say: Amen.

Anyone wanting to add a name to the list should contact Diane Shalom (216-831-6555 ext. 104 or dianeshalom@bnaijeshurun.org) by Thursday afternoon at the latest for inclusion in that Shabbat's program. We will also pause during the prayer for people to recite additional names from their seats.
