A Kabbalistic Tu B'Shevat Seder for Adults
Tuesday, January 30 • 7 pm

Tu B'Shevat has taken on many new and modern meanings, each of which has added new layers.

This seder will follow closely the original, traditional Kabbalistic seder. Kabbalists understand an upside-down tree to be a metaphor for the way that God's light flows into the world. Through ritual, song, meditation and food, the seder seeks to celebrate the ten sephirot (aspects of God) through which God's blessings flow and to bring that shefa (flow) down upon ourselves to cause our lives and world to blossom. No knowledge of Kabbalah is necessary. The seder includes four glasses of wine, fruits, nuts and a sumptuous dessert.

$10 per person (program subsidized in part by the Weingold Adult Learning Fund). RSVP to the synagogue office.

Dvar Torah

Yonah Johnson, Conservative Yeshiva Student & Lishmah Fellow

This week's parasha tells the story of the first seven plagues unleashed upon Egypt by God (with the help of Moses and Aaron): water turning into blood, frogs, lice, flies, death of livestock, boils, and hail. If you've ever been to a Pesach seder, you will likely be able to recite them without much thought. I recommend doing so with wine.

It might seem strange, but the Torah refers to the plagues brought down on Egypt as "wonders" and "miraculous signs". To the Egyptians, they were assuredly more like disasters. For the Israelites, the plagues were signs that their God - our God, the One God - was more powerful than Pharaoh. To Pharaoh, they were tricks, nothing more than that which his court magicians could perform. Wonders. Disasters. Signs. Tricks. It all depends on one's perspective.

The goal of these "wonders" was to prove God's control over the natural order. But while we tend to see miracles as violations of the natural order, perhaps there is nothing more miraculous than the natural order itself. What we see as the mundane truth of the sun rising, or of the wind blowing across the surface of the water, is in fact a miracle, sign, and wonder. But we must choose to see it that way - to shift our perspective and see how God's influence is always present in our lives, not just at special moments. The Torah calls us to peer below the surface to see what miracles God is working on our behalf - miracles that we might not even recognize as such.

I recently spent some time with my family in the United States. It was an unplanned trip. My maternal grandfather, who has always been like a father to me, is in poor health. He was diagnosed earlier this year with dementia and Parkinson's Disease. His decline has been much more rapid than any of us expected. After a recent fall, he was hospitalized and spent the last three weeks in a rehabilitation center. By the time this is published, he will have been discharged to hospice care.

For me, the miracle of this situation - the active presence of the divine - is hard to see. But it has given me pause to reflect on the many reasons I love my grandfather. The times he took me to McDonald's after picking me up from after-school care. Even though he had absolutely no interest in it, he'd listen to me talk for hours about the toy that came with my Happy Meal and whatever comic book or TV series it was from. These memories, now so tinged with melancholy, are powerful in their simplicity. They are memories of moments, but also of a constant presence.

Each year at Pesach, we are commanded to remember the Exodus from Egypt as if we were there, too. Retelling the story makes it real for us. I become one of the hundreds of thousands following Moses to the sea. On the other side is opportunity and freedom. On the other side is a different story from the one we've been telling.

But when we reach the other side, we don't forget the past. We keep telling the story as a reminder of how far we have come, as a reminder not to take anything for granted. Because it is taking things for granted, and not miraculous, that makes us feel that God has forgotten us or is otherwise absent. Taking things for granted returns us to Egypt.

As in the parasha, God's miracles can bring both pain and joy. But perhaps, with a shift of perspective we can see both pain and joy as miracles. We suffer, yet still find the strength to smile. We grieve, we heal, and we remember. And just like the rain that comes in its due time, that is a miracle. We just have to dig a little deeper to find it.

Table Talk by Vered Hollander-Goldfarb, Conservative Yeshiva Faculty

Moshe tells the people that God plans to take them out of the slavery in Egypt to the land promised to their ancestors. In the process, God sends 7 plagues to Egypt (for the last 3, come back next week) but Pharaoh does not let the people go.

1) The parasha opens with the Godly plan for the people of Israel (6:2-8). It opens and closes with the phrase: "I am the LORD". What do you think is the reason for this 'frame'? The phrase appears once more in the middle of the passage. Why?

2) Chapter 6 contains a (partial) family tree of the tribe of Levy, concerning some of the people that we have met or will meet. How many children does Aaron have? Who is his wife? Who is her brother and why do we care? (Bamidbar/Numbers 7:12 might help.)

3) Moshe is sent by God to speak to Pharaoh, with Aaron as his speaker. He is also told that Pharaoh will not heed their words (7:1-5). If you were to ask Pharaoh, would he tell you that God compelled him not to listen, or that he chose not to listen? Why do you think God told Moshe off?

4) In the first of the plagues the Nile turns to blood. Moshe is told to go meet Pharaoh as he goes to the water in the morning, and warn him of what is about to happen (7:15-18). Why do you think that this time and setting were chosen?

5) Two more plagues open with the early morning meeting (8:16-19, 9:13-21). What plagues are these? Where is the meeting place? Do you detect any pattern in the narrative of the plagues?

Kiddush or Oneg Sponsorships

Sponsorships are acknowledged in the Shabbat handout and in Tidings. The cost of a kiddush is $500 and an oneg is $250; partial sponsorships are available and they are tax deductible. Please contact Paula Botkin.

May He who blessed our ancestors and is the source of all healing bless and heal those who are ill. May the Holy One Praised Be He mercifully restore them to vigor and lift the burden of anxiety from their loved ones and friends.

On this (Sabbath, Festival, Judgment or Penitence) day we pray that they be spared further pain. May God grant them health of body and health of spirit and mind. May we speedily be privileged to greet their return to good health by welcoming them once again into our midst. Let us say: Amen.

Anyone wanting to add a name to the list should contact Diane Shalom (216-831-6555 ext. 104 or dianeshalom@bnaijeshurun.org) by Thursday afternoon at the latest for inclusion in that Shabbat's program. We will also pause during the prayer for people to recite additional names from their seats.
