Murder Mystery Evening featuring Vegas "Hit" Parade
An Original Floriano Production
Saturday, January 21 • 7 pm

This chance to play detective will leave you hungry to solve the mystery of who the murderer is while feeding your culinary delights! Start the evening with hors d'oeuvres, then the fun begins! Bobby Slick is a nightclub singer and ladies' man, who is accused of murdering a casino owner on the Vegas Strip. Bobby can really sing but the word is out: will he "sing" to the cops?! Detective Elton Browning struggles to find out who pulled "the job." Enjoy some of Sinatra's best songs and a seance!

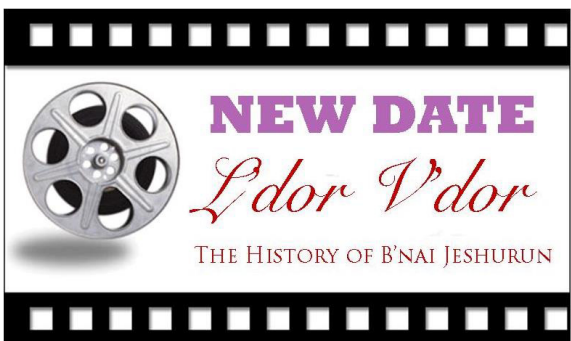

Reserve your spot today. Indicate your choice of a main course: rib steak, salmon or a Mediterranean vegetarian platter. Sit with your friends; reserved tables of eight available. Send your check for $36 per person payable to BJC Sisterhood to the synagogue office, attn. Grace Brower, or register online by this Monday, January 16 at bnaijeshurun.org/murdermystery.

Coin/Stamp/Collectibles Buy/Sell/Share Event
Sunday, January 29 • 11 am - 3 pm
Sponsored by Men's Club

Whether you are just looking at the collections, wish to purchase or sell, or want to start collecting, this is the place for you. We'll have experts available to help you get started. Lunch/refreshments available for purchase. Free Admission! Call to reserve a table to display your collectibles. The first 20 exhibitors pay only $20 per 8-foot table space! After that, the cost is $35. To book a table or for more information, contact Mike Barson (216-382-5498 or mikebarson7@outlook.com).

Rescheduled Movie Night
Monday, January 23 * 7 pm

Join documentarian Todd Kwait for a congregational viewing of his milestone film, L'dor V'dor: The History of B'nai Jeshurun. The film explores the history of our synagogue through historic recordings, photographs, interviews, and newly filmed footage that depicts our place within the broader historical context of the Jewish people. We will watch the film, which premiered at the Gala Premiere, followed by a Q&A and lovely dessert reception. This event is free and open to the community. (This event was rescheduled due to inclement weather on December 15.)

Office Volunteers Needed

Volunteers are needed to help at the front desk with lunchtime relief. Times can be arranged to conveniently fit your schedule. Both men and women are welcome. We guarantee a friendly, rewarding environment. Please contact Marilyn Greenwald (440-449-2449 or marilynandstuart@gmail.com).

GCC Chapter 2nd Town Hall Meeting
Wednesday, January 18 • 7 pm

Now that we are a member of the GCC organization, it's time to get YOU involved. Join us to hear James Pearlstein, GCC lead organizer, and learn how YOU can make a difference and have your voice heard. We will discuss the needs we perceive in our own community and the greater community, hear more about how GCC functions, train in community organizing, and continue to organize ourselves and discuss next steps.

Mandel JDS Shabbat – January 28

Many of our members who are students or alumni will be leading parts of the service throughout the morning. There will also be information provided about the school. If you are interested in leading a part of the Shabbat service, please contact Laura Simon (lsimon@mandeljds.org).

18th Annual Sheila Radman Balk Cholent Cookoff
Saturday, February 4 • noon
*Presented by the Men's Club

Hankering for some cholent to ease winter's chill? Taste a wide variety of superbly cooked cholents prepared by our wonderful congregational chefs. Here's a mesmerizing opportunity to prepare something really special for hundreds of hungry diners who will pick their favorite dishes and choose the winners.

Entrants follow their own recipes; we provide your ingredients. Team up with family or friends! If you are interested in cooking, please contact Richard Berkowitz (rrberk@yahoo.com or 216-245-6403) or Murray Berkowitz (mjbnick@gmail.com or 216-342-4759) by January 19.

If you are interested in eating, RSVP to bnaijeshurun.org/cholentcookoff or the synagogue office. Cost is $10 per person; children under 9 years old are free. Please make checks payable to BJC Men's Club.

Men's Club Shabbat • Saturday, February 4

If you would like to participate in the service, please contact David Cohen or Ed Horowitz (bnaijmc@gmail.com).

Families as Complex Organisms by Rabbi Daniel Goldfarb, Conservative Yeshiva Faculty and Coordinator, Torah Sparks

Parashat Vayhi, "and Jacob lived," closes the book of Bereishit and the lives of Jacob and his son Joseph. Hayyei Sarah, seven weeks ago, was similar - another parashah with a title of life and a subject of death of two major figures - Sarah and Abraham. Hayyei Sarah ended on a "happy" note; Isaac and Ishmael bury Abraham together, suggesting that they had reconciled their differences.

"Happy families are all alike; every unhappy family is unhappy in its own way," so begins Anna Karenina. The sibling situation at the end of Vayhi is less idyllic; closer to Tolstoy. On returning from Jacob's funeral, the Torah tells us, When Joseph's brothers saw that their father was dead, they said: "What if Joseph still hates us and pays us back for the wrong we did to him?" (50:15). It's a poignant moment - forty years after they had cast Joseph into the pit; seventeen years since they had been reunited in Egypt, the brothers are still worried and anxious.

What is it that "the brothers saw that their father was dead" that caused this angst? Rashi brings the Midrash that Joseph no longer invited them to eat with him as he did when Yakov had been alive. No big surprise here - how many families maintain the same degree of sibling cohesion after the parents are gone?

Another Midrash tells that on the way back from Jacob's funeral in Hebron, Joseph "halach v'hetzitz betoch ha'bor" - he went to look into the pit into which he'd been cast four decades earlier. The Midrash says he did it to thank God for the miraculous outcome of that incident. But when the brothers saw Joseph looking into that pit, different thoughts ran through their minds: amru: lu yist'menu, maybe he'll hate us. That's not the childhood video they want to show at family gatherings. The heavy burden of deep-seated, unresolved guilt did not originate with Freud.

The saddest moment of this little episode is when the brothers say: 'Before he died your father left this instruction: Forgive your brothers' (50:16-17). Were they telling the truth? Rashi says no, Jacob never gave such an instruction; shinu dvar mipnei ha'shalom - they told a lie for the sake of peace. And most of the commentators agree. It's not such a strange human tendency - fudge the truth to improve relations or a situation. We all do it. "So good to see you again"... "such a delicious dinner."

Yet there is data to suggest that, davka (indeed), it was true. Jacob knew very well of precedent in the family of sibling hostility deferred till father dies: after Rivka and he had plotted to get Isaac's blessing, the Torah says (27:41) "And Esau hated Jacob...and said in his heart, As soon as mourning for my father is over, I'll kill my brother Jacob."

And more recently Jacob himself - in his "blessings" to his children in the immediately preceding chapter - cursed Shimon and Levi for their murderous acts against the people of Shechem following the rape of Dina decades earlier. Jacob was a person who shamar et hadavar (37:11), remembered things; kept accounts. No seven or twelve year Statute of Limitations for him.

Family relations in the Torah three thousand years ago, between generations and within generations, could be complex, painful, bitter, sweet; often "all of the above." Just like they are today.

Table Talk by Vered Hollander-Goldfarb, Conservative Yeshiva Faculty

We have reached the end of Bereshit, the first book of the Torah. Now the stories of the patriarchs and matriarchs come to a close with the stories of the end of the lives of Ya'akov (Jacob) and Joseph.

1) How long does Yaakov live in Egypt (47:28)? Why do you think that the Torah tells us how long he was in Egypt? This number appears elsewhere in the story of Yaakov/Joseph. Do you remember what was counted? (37:1-2 can help you.) Is there any connection between the two?

2) On his death bed, Yaakov gives Joseph a double share of the land (48:5-6). How will this work? (As you read through the Tanakh, note that there is no tribe of Joseph, there is the tribe of Ephraim and the tribe of Manasseh.) Why do you think that Yaakov does this? Why might Joseph be entitled to this? (The first-born son was entitled to a double share.)

3) When Yaakov dies, a large group of people comes along on the trip to Canaan to bury him (50:7-10). Who, other than his family, attend the funeral? How do they show their respect for Yaakov? Why do you think that these people had such great respect for Yaakov?

4) Where do the sons bury Yaakov (50:13)? Why do you think that Yaakov asked to be buried there? (Use 49:29-32 to help you.)

5) After the brothers return from burying Yaakov they send a message to Joseph (50:15-17). What is the message? Why did they send it? Why was this not of concern until now?

Atid: A Night Out with the Cleveland Monsters
Saturday, January 28 • 7 pm

Tickets are reserved in the front two rows of section 208 for Atid! There will also be a Tribute to the Cleveland Indians and we may get to see a few players. Tickets are $12 and seats are limited. May He who blessed our ancestors and is the source of all healing bless and heal those who are ill. May the Holy One Praised Be He mercifully restore them to vigor and lift the burden of anxiety from their loved ones and friends.

On this (Sabbath, Festival, Judgment or Penitence) day we pray that they be spared further pain. May God grant them health of body and health of spirit and mind. May we speedily be privileged to greet their return to good health by welcoming them once again into our midst. Let us say: Amen.

Anyone wanting to add a name to the list should contact Diane Shalom (216-831-6555 ext. 104 or dianeshalom@bnaijeshurun.org) by Thursday afternoon at the latest for inclusion in that Shabbat's program. We will also pause during the prayer for people to recite additional names from their seats.

Sisterhood Lunch & Learn:
Politics, People and Passions
featuring Connie Schultz
Tuesday, January 31 • noon

Ms. Schultz is a nationally syndicated columnist, Pulitzer Prize winner and professional-in-residence at Kent State University. Audience members will have the opportunity to ask questions and share their thoughts.
