Mahzorim: You're Covered!

Thanks to the generosity of Gayl & Alan Berger and family, you do not need to buy copies of the new High Holy Day prayer book, Lev Shalem, which we are now using. Gayl & Alan have donated 2,500 mahzorim to the congregation, to be held at the synagogue and used each year. When you come to synagogue, you will find your prayer book in the seat pocket in front of you (in the David J. Moskowitz Sanctuary) or on your seat (in Rosenthal Auditorium and at Gross Schechter Day School). We ask that you treat these books with great care and leave them in the pocket or on the seat upon completion of each service so they may be collected and stored from year to year. We are collecting the Mahzor Hadash prayer books for donation to other shuls. Contact Rafi Simon for more information, or just bring them in.

If you are unable to attend this Sunday, but would like to help in the future, we will be canvassing once more before the elections on November 6.

RSVP to Shani Kadis if you would like to attend or learn more. To learn more about GCC, visit their website: greaterclevelandcongregations.org.

Special Shabbatot

Help us spread the word as we honor these special groups by inviting others, especially those who may no longer belong to BJC.

October 15: Leadership Shabbat

Every great community is made up of greater individual elements, and B'nai Jeshurun is no exception. Part of what has kept us strong for 150 years is the wonderful lay leadership who have always surrounded and supported us. We would be remiss if we didn't have an occasion to thank and celebrate all they have done for this synagogue at large. Please join us as we honor the past leadership of B'nai Jeshurun, Beth Am and Bethaynu as well as the present leadership at B'nai Jeshurun. We will hear reflections from a few dynamic members, have a group aliyah dedicated to all leadership in attendance, and reminisce over old photographs, memorabilia and mementos.

Following services, the celebration will continue with a birthday cake to celebrate the actual 150th anniversary, as well as the dedication of the 150th Anniversary Commemorative quilt that was so carefully completed over the past 14 months by Arlene Harris, Jan Greenberg, Margie Cohen, Natalie Bluestone and Stephanie Lipscomb.

October 29: Clergy Shabbat

A synagogue's success, warmth and acceptance is dependent upon the clergy who serve it, and B'nai Jeshurun is fortunate to have had wonderful Rabbis and Cantors lead it for the past 150 years. Join us as we celebrate all of our clergy, both past and present, when we will honor all who served our congregation, as well as Beth Am and Bethaynu. We will seek to involve all clergy in the service. We will also hear reflections by some of our past and present clergy as well as from members. We will enjoy memorabilia and photographs and truly show our appreciation to those who have in the past and still lead us today.

Sisterhood to The Glass Asylum Sunday, November 6 • 12:00 pm

Create beautiful glass pieces of art while spending an afternoon of camaraderie with friends. This event is limited to 30 people. RSVP by October 10 to Eve Phythyon (3133 Abrams Drive, Twinsburg, OH 44087) $45/Sisterhood member; $60/non-member, which includes your artwork, light snacks and beverages. The Glass Asylum is located at 22 W. Orange St., Chagrin Falls, and we will meet there.

Remember those who Chop your Wood and Draw your Water

Rabbi Peretz Rodman, of Jerusalem, is a teacher, writer, and translator, and head of the Masorti bet din of Eretz Yisrael

Do you ever look past the main characters in a play, a film, or a TV show, to focus on the bit players, the supernumeraries? Who are those spear carriers, anyway? Are they two-dimensional figures who merely move the plot along? Might they, like Tom Stoppard's Rosencrantz and Guildenstern, someday step into center stage? In the opening of Moses' oration in this week's parasha, he spins out a list of who he means by atem, the plural "you" whom he is addressing with his message of covenantal responsibility. He enumerates: "your tribal heads, your elders and your officials, all the men of Israel; your children, your wives, even your stranger within your camp, from the one who chops your wood to the one who draws your water" (Deut. 29:9-10).

The most striking note sounded here is the repetition of "your." Looking closer, we see that the pronouns are plural at first. Standard English is poor at enabling us to hear the distinction, but the "you" who have an officialdom and children and wives are "you guys," "y'all," or however you convey the second person plural. But the last mentioned—the ger, the alien, the foreigner who is "yours," whatever menial task he performs in your household and farm in ancient Israel—is addressed to the single, individual "you."

This last rhetorical flourish, detailing some of the menial labor performed by one's household workers and calling each worker "yours" individually, is the hallmark of the author (or Author) of Deuteronomy. That author is adept at addressing the reader as a person with individual responsibility and an individual conscience. In the present verse the message is: "You [singular, this time] are the person who determines the living conditions of another human being, one whom you might ignore or neglect because his social status is low and his agency over his own life is limited. Do not overlook him."

This is the same individual ger referred to already in the first chapter of Deuteronomy, where the author lays down the rule of equality before the law, as "his ger" (1:16), the alien resident on a person's family landholding, with whom an Israelite might enter into a dispute. That resident alien is afforded protection under the law equal to that granted to any Israelite. He is the same ger, I would suggest, whom the author of Exodus 23:12 is concerned about as well, when he writes that the purpose of Shabbat is "so that... your maidservant's child and the ger" (who live with your family on your property) "shall [rest and] be refreshed."

In our lives as well, there are such nearly-invisible figures. Some are there for us to see: the people cleaning our airport restrooms and those filling the shelves in our supermarkets. In our post-industrial societies, we may literally not see them, though: the people packing our orders in giant warehouses and those sorting somewhere what we tossed into our mixed recycling receptacles. They are our gerim. The conditions of their lives are determined by those who own and patronize the institutions that employ them—if they find employment at all. They are dependent upon those of us with access to money and power and influence.

May He who blessed our ancestors and is the source of all healing bless and heal those who are ill. May the Holy One Praised Be He mercifully restore them to vigor and lift the burden of anxiety from their loved ones and friends.

On this (Sabbath, Festival, Judgment or Penitence) day we pray that they be spared further pain. May God grant them health of body and health of spirit and mind. May we speedily be privileged to greet their return to good health by welcoming them once again into our midst. Let us say: Amen.

Anyone wanting to add a name to the list should contact Diane Shalom (216-831-6555 ext. 104 or dianeshalom@bnaijeshurun.org) by Thursday afternoon at the latest for inclusion in that Shabbat's program. We will also pause during the prayer for people to recite additional names from their seats.
