Providing Rides - Pilot Program

Through the efforts of the synagogue's Inclusion Committee, arrangements have been made with JFSA to provide transportation to and from the synagogue for members who are unable to attend Shabbat morning services or daytime events due to transportation issues. This van service will be provided free of charge as a pilot project, funded through the generosity of the Joel Schwarz Memorial Chesed Fund, starting in November for six months.

If you or someone you know is interested in using this service, please contact executive director Jay Ross and provide your name, address and phone number. This initial contact is only to express interest, not to book specific dates of service. When our member list is finalized, we will coordinate with JFSA and members will be informed how to arrange rides. Members will call JFSA to schedule rides and not the synagogue office. Please note that the vans will accommodate walkers, but are unable to accommodate wheelchairs.

We look forward to implementing this transportation service and enabling our members to attend programs and services.

FREE AND OPEN TO THE COMMUNITY • RESERVATIONS REQUIRED

Bruce Henderson is an award winning journalist and writer. He has taught writing and reporting at USC School of Journalism & Stanford University.

Sons and Soldiers tells the little-known saga of young German Jews, dubbed The Ritchie Boys. They fled Nazi Germany in the 1930's, came of age in America, and returned to Europe to fight as members of the U.S. Army and play a key role in the Allied victory.

The Ritchie Boys were sent in small, elite teams where they interrogated German POWs and gathered crucial intelligence. A postwar Army report found that more than sixty percent of the credible intelligence gathered in Europe came from the Ritchie Boys.

Dvar Torah by Dr. Shaiya Rothberg, Conservative Yeshiva Faculty

In this week's portion we read: "After these things the word of the LORD came unto Avram in a vision, saying: 'Fear not, Avram! I am thy shield, thy reward shall be exceedingly great.'...And Avram said: 'O Lord GOD, what wilt Thou give me, seeing I go hence childless...?'" Avram is afraid that he will die without a child from Sarai. This is both a personal loss and perhaps an existential crisis: Avram's life has been about faith in God. God promised him an heir (Genesis 12:7). Was it all just illusion?

In the end, God delivered Yitschak as promised, but to Avraham and Sarah, not Avram and Sarai. First God changed their names, adding one letter of the divine name - the letter Heh - to each of their names. Why?

To answer this question, we need to ask another one: After Avram's complaint, we read, "And God brought him outside, and said: 'Look now toward heaven, and count the stars, if thou be able to count them'; and God said unto him: 'So shall thy seed be.'" (Genesis 15:5). But we were not told before that Avram was inside any tent or building, so why does God suddenly bring him outside?! Outside of what!? Rashi explains:

"The simple meaning of the words, God took him outside, are that God took him outside his tent to see the stars. But the midrashic meaning is that God said to him, "Get out of your [belief in] astrology; you think that you have read in the stars that you will not have a son. [But the truth is that] Avram will not have a son, but Avraham will have one, and Sarai will not have a son, but Sarah will have one: I call you by a different name [by adding the letter Heh] and your "destiny" is altered!"

Rashi attributes to Avraham a belief common in his own days: that the stars control our fate. That might strike us as unfair: most people today think that astrology is nonsense, whereas the idea that Sarai was past childbearing age was not nonsense, but biology! However, astrology and modern science share something important: they both posit that our fate is determined by impersonal mechanistic forces. Following this logic, God said to Avram, "Transcend your belief in the mechanistic forces of nature and join Me in that dimension of reality where free will overcomes physics, there you will share one letter of My name, and together we will choose to change your so-called 'destiny'".

Since I believe in science, the modern-day mechanistic belief system that replaced astrology, this message is a challenge. I don't understand how any will, even God's, could make possible that which is biologically impossible. I even believe, in keeping with science as I understand it, that humans are bio-robo-computers wholly determined by the laws of nature like all material things.

And yet, bio-robo-computer that I am, I choose to seek life, spirit, love and justice and place my faith in serving what I recognize as God. Can we imagine a computer, even one made of flesh, who chooses or has faith? I cannot: Material things have causes, not ideals. Do you agree? If so, then perhaps God's words to Avram are directed at us! "Transcend your mechanistic belief system and join Me in that dimension where even you - chunks of matter spit out by the big bang, physics and evolution - can

Table Talk by Vered Hollander-Goldfarb, Conservative Yeshiva Faculty

In this Parasha we begin to focus on Avram (Abram). He journeys with his wife Sarai (Sarah) to an unknown land, is forced to leave it due to a famine, receives a promise from God that he will become a great nation, all while desperately longing for a child.

- 1) Avram is instructed by God to 'go from your land, your birthplace, and your father's home' (12:1). Why do you think that Avraham had to leave his familiar environment? What will be difficult in Avram's new situation, and will be the potential benefits?
- 2) Lot, Avram's nephew that traveled with him, parts ways with Avram because of fighting between his shepherds and those of Avram. Where does he choose to settle? What draws him to that place (13:10-12)? What does he ignore about the place (13:13)?
- 3) What do these two stories together tell us about what is important when choosing where to settle and where to build a life?
- 4) How do we properly assess our ability to influence our environment for the good vs. its ability to influence us for the bad?

May He who blessed our ancestors and is the source of all healing bless and heal those who are ill. May the Holy One Praised Be He mercifully restore them to vigor and lift the burden of anxiety from their loved ones and friends.

On this (Sabbath, Festival, Judgment or Penitence) day we pray that they be spared further pain. May God grant them health of body and health of spirit and mind. May we speedily be privileged to greet their return to good health by welcoming them once again into our midst. Let us say: Amen.

Anyone wanting to add a name to the list should contact Diane Shalom (216-831-6555 ext. 104 or dianeshalom@bnaijeshurun.org) by Thursday afternoon at the latest for inclusion in that Shabbat's program. We will also pause during the prayer for people to recite additional names from their seats.
